Readiness Standards/Aligned Readiness
Attending a Ballet Performance

Going to see a ballet performance is the SAME as going to a movie:

- The lights dim before the performance begins and the theater stays dark during the ballet.
- Audience members are expected to quietly sit in their seats during the performance.
- Audience members may NOT take any pictures or video during the performance. This is distracting to the dancers and other audience members, AND Dancing in Texas is copyrighted artistic material.
- All cell phones and other electronic devices should be powered OFF as soon as you enter the theater.

Going to see a ballet performance is DIFFERENT than going to a movie:

- Ballet is performed live. The dancers can see and react to the audience!
- Audience members can show the dancers when they appreciate their performance! If something is funny, you can laugh! If the dancers are doing a great job, then you can clap!
- At the end of the show, the dancers all bow. This is called a curtain call. If you really loved the show, you can give the dancers a standing ovation to show that you appreciate their hard work!
- School clothes are appropriate, but some people like to dress up for ballet performances. Just make sure you are comfortable!
A Closer Look

Sleeping Beauty

The third and final act of the ballet Sleeping Beauty is the wedding of Princess Aurora and Prince Desire. Many storybook characters, like Little Red Riding Hood, the Big Bad Wolf and Puss in Boots, attend the wedding to celebrate their love and to entertain the royal family by dancing divertissements, or short dances. We meet Princess Florine who dances a pas de deux, or dance for two, with the Bluebird. The Bluebird is a prince who is turned into a bird by Florine's wicked stepmother. These two dancers work together to perform many difficult lifts, jumps and turns.

Music by Pyotr Ilyich Tchaikovsky
Choreography by Ben Stevenson, OBE
Costumes and Set Design by Desmond Heeley
Lighting Design by Duane Schuler

Houston Ballet Academy Students in Sleeping Beauty
The Nutcracker is the only ballet that Houston Ballet performs EVERY year. It is a holiday tradition for many people in Houston and all around the world. The Nutcracker tells the magical story of a young girl, Clara, who saves a Nutcracker Prince in a battle against an evil Rat King. To return the favor, the prince takes her on a journey from her living room through the Land of Snow to the Kingdom of the Sweets.

The Sugar Plum Fairy rules over the Land of Sweets, and her subjects entertain Clara by dancing divertissements, or short dances, from countries around the world, including Spain, Russia, China, and France. Finally, the Sugar Plum Fairy and the Nutcracker Prince dance a pas de deux, or dance for two, for Clara before she returns home. These two dancers work together to perform many difficult lifts, jumps and turns.

Music by Pyotr Ilyich Tchaikovsky
Choreography by Ben Stevenson
Costumes and Set Design by Desmond Heeley
Lighting Design by Duane Schuler
In ballet, a pas de deux is a dance duet in which two dancers, usually a male and a female, perform ballet steps together. These dancers must use teamwork to create difficult movements and shapes on stage. When these dancers move together and support one another, we call this partnering.

Many of the ballets in Dancing in Texas feature pas de deux, and they are all different!

Pecos Bill

Pecos Bill is from the third act, or section, of the ballet Tales of Texas. This ballet was choreographed by Stanton Welch AM for Houston Ballet in 2004. It is about one of the most colorful figures in Texas folklore, Pecos Bill, the mythical cowboy. He was raised by a pack of wild coyotes after falling from his parents' covered wagon while they were crossing the Pecos River.

His story is called a Tall Tale, and his adventures include lassoing a cyclone, riding a mountain lion, and using a rattlesnake as a whip. Legend has it that he invented the branding iron to stop cattle rustling, drained the Rio Grande to water his ranch during a drought, and taught gophers to dig potholes.

In Dancing in Texas, we see a pas de deux, or dance for two, between Pecos Bill and his coyote mother. The role of the coyote is a challenging one for the dancer because she has to dance ballet while moving her body to help the audience imagine her as a coyote.

Music by Matthew Pierce
Choreography by Stanton Welch AM
Costumes and Set Design by Kristian Fredrikson
Lighting Design by Lisa Pinkham

Ballet Folklórico

Baile folklórico means "folkloric dance" in Spanish and is also known as ballet folklórico. Ballet folklórico is not just one style of dance, but a mixture of dance styles that reflect the diverse culture of Mexico. This dance mixes Mexican cultures and folk dances with characteristics of ballet, like pointed toes and movements that are exaggerated and choreographed. You can recognize this style of dance by the costumes the dancers wear. The women wear colorful, layered dresses that spread and twirl as they spin on the dance floor, and the men wear all-black suits, similar to traditional mariachi costumes.

The Alamo

The Alamo today is a museum in the Alamo Plaza District, located in downtown San Antonio, Texas. However, originally it was a Roman Catholic mission called Mission San Antonio de Valero that later became the site of the Battle of the Alamo.

The Battle of the Alamo took place in 1836 in what is now San Antonio, Texas. At that time, Texas belonged to Mexico, but many people in Texas wanted it to leave Mexico and become a new country. Over 100 of these people were in the Alamo when a Mexican army of several thousand showed up and surrounded the Alamo. The Mexican army surrounded the Alamo for 13 days, then attacked on March 6, 1836. The Texans were able to fight off the first few attacks, but there were too many Mexican soldiers and they climbed the walls and got inside the fort. The fighting was fierce, but eventually the Mexicans won.

Although the Texans lost the battle, it energized the rest of Texas against Mexico. A few months later, Sam Houston led the Texans to victory the Battle of San Jacinto. During the battle, the Texan soldiers shouted out "Remember the Alamo!"

Animal Dances

In Pecos Bill, the Coyote Mother has special choreography that makes her seem animal-like. Her arms are bent like dogs’ legs, and her hands are cupped, so it looks like she has paws instead of fingers. Also, she doesn’t dance upright like a regular human being.

Use the activities below to explore animal movements with your students!

Activity 1: Animal Poses

1. Ask students to give examples of different animals they might see in a zoo.

2. After sharing a few examples whole group, have students think of one zoo animal and create a pose as that animal. (Use questions like the ones below to guide student thinking as they create)
   - How can you transform your body to look like an animal?
   - Is the animal light/heavy? Fast/slow?
   - How can your face/body show the animal?
   - What details can you add?

3. Select volunteers to show their poses to the class and have the class copy each pose. After copying the volunteer’s pose, have students create a different pose as the same animal.

Activity 2: Animal Freeze Dance

1. Play music and have students move calmly around the room.

2. Direct students to continue moving while the music plays and to come to a complete stop whenever the music stops.

3. Tell students that when the music stops, you will call out one zoo animal. Students should quickly move into a zoo animal pose and freeze in that pose. Take this time to observe student poses and identify and share out a few animals that you see.

4. When the music starts again, direct students to continue moving around the room, but this time they will move like the animal they were posed as.

5. Repeat steps 3-5 for different zoo animals.

(Use questions like the ones below to guide student thinking)

- How can you transform your body to look/move like an animal?
- Is the animal fast/slow? Light/heavy?
- What different ways does the animal move?
- How can your face/body show the animal?
- What details can you add?

* Throughout these activities, remind students to move safely, stay focused, use face and body, and try different moves.
What’s the Weather?

In Dancing in Texas! students watched the snow scene from The Nutcracker. Dancers in this ballet moved like snowflakes to create the feeling of it snowing onstage. Use the activity below to explore movement affected by different weather patterns.

In this activity, students can use pantomime. Pantomime is using movements and facial expressions to tell a story or express information without words.

1. Start whole group by discussing different types of weather/natural disasters.
   - Examples: rain, snow, hail, windstorm, blizzard, heat wave, heavy fog, earthquake, hurricane, tornado, etc.

2. Have students use their imaginations as you describe a type of weather entering the room. (if comfortable, students can close eyes here)

3. As each type of weather enters the rooms, students will allow it to affect their movement. Challenge students by changing factors in the weather (e.g. wind speed, water level, etc.).
   - Have students explore movement:
     - while staying in one spot
     - while moving around the room
     - while changing levels (high, middle, low)

4. Prompt students’ movement by asking questions like the ones below:
   - How does this weather affect how your body moves?
   - How does it feel to move in this weather? What do you see/smell/hear/taste?
   - What details can you add to your movement?
   - What items might you have in this weather? Can you use your body to show it? (Pantomime)

Finally, have students work in small groups to create a movement piece that depicts a certain type of weather. Groups take turns performing their piece for each other. Audience members can think or write critically about which type of weather they think each group was trying to show.

EXTENDING THIS ACTIVITY

Moving with Music: Use music to underscore each type of weather/natural disaster as it enters the room. Have students move to the music using movements that show each type of weather/natural disaster.

Become the Weather: Change things up by having students move as if they were the weather. Students will use whole body movements to express a type of weather/natural disaster. Have students work together to create choreography for a weather dance!

* Throughout these activities, remind students to move safely, stay focused, use face and body, and try different moves.

Why do they wear that?

Dancers, like athletes, have to wear special clothes for both practice and performance.

Class and Rehearsal:

In rehearsal, both boys and girls wear leotards and tights. Just like football players at the line of scrimmage, dancers need to move fast. It’s best not to have lots of clothing in the way to add friction. So dancers and many other athletes wear extra tight pants to help them move faster and more clearly.

Performances:

Houston Ballet dancers wear all different kinds of costumes, depending on the ballet they are performing.

In classical ballets, women wear tutus, and men wear tunics. In the photo at right, the Sugar Plum Fairy is wearing a classical tutu, pointe shoes and tiara. Her Cavalier is wearing a tunic, tights and ballet slippers. Pointe shoes are satin ballet slippers that have a hard tip that allows female dancers dance on the tips of their toes.

In contemporary ballets, dancers wear all kinds of costumes. In the picture at left, the male dancer is wearing tights and ballet slippers, and the female dancer is wearing a leotard, skirt and pointe shoes.
The mission of Houston Ballet is to inspire a lasting love and appreciation for dance through artistic excellence, exhilarating performances, innovative choreography, and superb educational programs.

Houston Ballet Foundation was formed in 1955 and Houston Ballet Academy, a school for nurturing talented dance students with dreams of professional dancing, was established that same year. In 1969, the professional resident company was founded drawing upon the strength of the Academy.

In 1976, the Houston Ballet conducted a national and international search for an Artistic Director. Ben Stevenson, formerly director of the National Ballet of Washington D.C., Principal Dancer and Ballet Master with the London Festival Ballet, was hired and served as Artistic Director until 2003. Through his exceptional leadership and direction, Houston Ballet developed a broad repertory including both classical and contemporary works as well as an Academy with a first-rate professional training school.

In 1987, the company moved into its new performing home, the magnificent Wortham Center, a facility with which few performing arts houses in the world can compare.

In July 2003, the acclaimed Australian choreographer Stanton Welch assumed the leadership of Houston Ballet, America’s fourth largest ballet company, as artistic director. Since his arrival, Mr. Welch has transformed Houston Ballet by raising the level of classical technique, infusing the company with new energy, drive and vision; introducing works by distinguished choreographers to the repertoire; and attracting some of the world’s best coaches to Houston to work with the dancers. He has created works for such prestigious international companies as Houston Ballet, San Francisco Ballet, American Ballet Theatre, The Australian Ballet, Birmingham Royal Ballet, and Royal Danish Ballet.

In 2011, Houston Ballet moved into its new home, the largest dance center in North America, Houston Ballet’s Center for Dance; with over 70,000 square feet, and a bridge connecting it to the Wortham Theater.

Today, Houston Ballet continues to delight and inspire audiences through artistic excellence and innovative choreography. The 2019-2020 year marked the 50th anniversary of Houston Ballet.
